DOUBLY DIVORCED.

A Washington Woman Granted a Second Decree from an Ugly Husband-The Regular Court Record.

TWICE UNITED. Barbara Kropp was yesterday granted a divorce from Henry Kropp on the ground of ernelty. This is the second time these parties have been divorced. After the first legal everance they made up and were remarried have the knot untied, stating that her husband had pursued her with a knife and pistol and threatened to kill her, and that it was an every day occurrence for the defendant to apply to her the must insulting epithets.

SLANDER. John Garvey yesterday entered suit against Edward Henderson, claiming $10,000 damages for slander. The plaintiff alleges that prior to the twenty-second day of October last he had been considered a good and reputable citizen, but on first day the defendant, in the presence of divers persons, called him "a thirf" and "a rogne," and asked what "he did with the other $20 he stale from the defendant," for which he claims damages as aforesaid.

TRUE BILLS. THUE BILLS.

The grand jury yesterday presented "true bills" against Louis Dobson allas Lewis Dobson and Andrew Harris, second offense petit larceny. They ignored the charge against Archibald C. Boane, Stephen N. Chase and Jones B. Kirchener for conspiracy. These are the three young men who, it is alleged, swindled Hadeburst Bros. by means of docturing the steek constations and manipulated. turing the stock quotations and manipulated the telegraph.

Lecture on Theology.

Prof. Childs last evening gave the third Prof. Childs last evening gave the third lecture of his course on theology in the lecture room of the Y. M. C. A. After a review of the subjects of previous lectures, he took up the question, "Is a supernatural revelation possible and actual?" The history of the bible, he urged, had been corroborated by discoveries in Babylon. Nineveh, and Egypt, the morality of the bible was such as only a the morality of the bible was such as only a divine being could give utterance to, and the prophesies, telling of events in remote ages, which in the indicated time were verified and fulfilled, were all the best of evidences. The next lecture will be on Friday evening. January 5, and begin at half-past six, so as to allow the class and andicace afterward to attend the lecture that evening of Rev. Joseph Cooke.

Kindergarten Enfertainment.

The Kindergarten schools of Mrs. Louise and Miss Mary R. Pollock held a christmas and Miss Mary R. Pollock held a christmas entertainment in the lecture room of the Congregational church last evening. After the rendition of an extremely well selected programme which was effectively rendered, the children presented glits of their own manufacture to their parents. Then glits from the christmas tree were presented to a number of little children who had been sent by the associated charities, and whose little hearts were made glad by the kindness thus extended to them. The whole entertainment was exceedingly interesting and was greatly enjoyed by all present.

Miss Carroll's Funeral.

As was authounced in THE REPUBLICAN the funeral of Miss Ann C. Carroll took place yesterday from St. Peter's church on Capitol hill. Rev. Father Sullivan celebrated requiem mins, and several of the clergy were present, including Fathers Curry, of Georgetown college, and Walter, of St. Patrick's. The pull-bearers were Messis, T. E. Waggaman, Alexander Porter Morse, George F. Applelby, B. L. Jackson, R. L. B. Clarke, and Dr. James S. Beale. The remains were temporarily deposited in the vault at Mount Olivet cometery, but will be finally placed in the Georgetown college burial ground, where Miss Carroll's father and many of her relatives are interred.

MERRY CHRISTMAS.

Interchange of Presents Between Teachers and Pupils in the Public Schools.

The public schools yesterday closed until the 3d of January, 1883. In nearly all special had July. In September she brought suit to exercises were held during the day, and it was made the occasion of the interchange of presents between the teachers and their pupils. In the third grade school of Miss Helen D. Robinson in the Memorial church, corner of Vermont avenue and N streets, the scholars presented their teacher with an elegantly bound clittion of Tupper's "Proverbial Philosophy" and a pair of vases. Individual scholars also brought other presents of books and flowers. Miss Robinson, as she closed her school, wished all her little girls a merry christmas, and presented each with a bandaria christmas and presented each with a handsome christmus card.

Many of the little children in the first grade at the Franklin building carried gifts of books. Howers, and, in some cases, articles of jewelry to Miss M. F. Pumphrey, and Miss McLean, teacher of the sixth grade in the same build-ing, was given a handsome handkerchief box by her pupils, beside receiving other presents of books and flowers from individual scholars. Similar exercises were held in the colored public schools, and in some of them quite ex-tensive programmes were carried out. At the high schools of the seventh and eighth divisions the exercises were as follows: Music, "Bring back the old folks;" declamation, Bruce Evans ("Over the hills from the poor-house"); essay, Julia Pierre ("How money is made"); declamation. Alice Ashton ("Good made"; declamation. Alice Ashton ("Good influence"); masse, instrumental duet, Graco Shimm and Emma Scott; declamation, Georgie Simpson ("He giveth His beloved sleep"); reading, Willie Nickols ("The, two glasses"); declamation, Eloise Bryant ("Where the Rhine runs down to the sea"); musical chorus ("Wait till the clouds roll by"); declamation, Alberta Taylor ("The costly jewel") essay, Grace Shimm ("Silent cities"); music, duet, Pale Morn, Emma Scott and Alice Wills; declamation, Bettie Hudnell ("Somebody's mother"); declamation, Rebecca Baldwin ("Little Mabel"); declamation, Hattie Normon ("Only sixteen"); music, chorus ("Spring song"); quotations.

At the John F. Cook building the eighth grade school, of which Miss M. P. Shadd is principal, the school room was beautifully decorated, and the Whittler exercises comprised the following programme: Chorus, "Blessed are They;" biographical sketch of Whittier by the school; selections from the "Centennial Hynn," Helen Collins, Charles West, Ebbie Pinkney, Marion Johnson, John Smith, and Mary Thomas; recitation, "Seedtime and Harvest," Lucy Webb; chorus, "Suffer the Children;" recitation, "Barbara Freitchie," Letitia Williams; chorus, "Jesus Lover of My Sonl;" recitation, "In School Days," Katie Wall; recitation, "The Robin," Rebecca Norton; chorus, "Joyful Hearts and Smilling Faces," recitation, "Angel of Patience," Elizabeth Browne; recitation, "Mary Garvin," Emma Kinner; chorus, "Far Away;" quotations from the author by the school; presentation of a Christmas basket to the janitor, Mr. Thomas, by the teachers of the building. After appropriate speeches by Mr. H. P. Montgomery, of the seventh division, and Mr. Scott Montgomery, of the eighth, the exercises were concluded by wishing all a "merry christmas and happy new year." ing all a "merry christmas and happy new year."

Tae Philadelphia North American says of Alexander De Wolowski, of this city: "He explains the piano and the science of music to each pupil thoroughly, as well as the true nature of music. He is also a vocalist of very high cultivation, possesses great skill in the vocal art and has furnished many fine artists for the public. This is the best proof of his skill in correcting bad style and imparting brilliancy and power of expression."

His musical institute is at 1116 M street, corner of Twelfth street northwest.
